Musical Festival Opened To-day With Record Entry List

Competitions in City's Third Annual Event Commence in Four Buildings; Official Opening Ceremonies
To-night in Metropolitan Church With Address of Welcome by Mayor Anson; Junior Vocal Classes
Adjudicated This Morning; Dr. Protheroe Late Arriving.

Victoria's third annual Musical Festival opened its five daily and evening sessions to-day. With a record entry list and a group of some of the finest adjudicators procurable the gathering is expected to be the most successful to date.

This evening, Mayor Anson will deliver an address of welcome at the Metropolitan United Church to officially open the festival.

Finally at 10 o'clock this morning the doors of the four large buildings in which the adjudications will be held were open to the hundreds of competitors and to the public. These centres are at the First Baptist Church, Metropolitan Church, City Temple Hall and New Thought Temple.

These of the visiting adjudicators at once commenced their tasks. P. L. Newcombe is adjudicating all junior vocal and choral classes at the Metropolitan Church. Prof. Warren D. Allen, the pianoforte and organ classes at Temple Hall and Mrs. Stanley D. Skene the elocution classes at the New Thought Temple.

Dr. Dan Protheroe, who is to adjudicate all senior vocal and choral classes at the First Baptist Church, did not arrive in the city in time to adjudicate this morning. He arrived from Seattle on the steamer Princess Charlotte this afternoon. As a result, all the classes in vocal duets, vocal solo (soprano under nineteen) scheduled for this morning were postponed until Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

The festival committee, naturally anxious, used the telephone and wireless—but up to noon had not got in touch with him. They arranged with Graham Morgan of Seattle to come by aeroplane to take Dr. Protheroe's place if any thing untoward has occurred. A wireless received at 12:30 o'clock, however, set at rest the anxiety of the committee by assuring them that the genial doctor was aboard the Princess Charlotte.

The classes for all stringed instruments and folk dancing will not be adjudicated until Friday, the former in the City Temple Hall, and the latter, dancing in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the High School auditorium. The adjudicators in these classes are Prof. R. K. Underwood, and Beatrice Cave-Brown-Cave.

In many of the classes the finals will be determined at the end of the sessions. Others for final adjudication will be reserved to the evening session, when the victors will be announced and presented with either medal, trophy, cup or shield. These finals are outstanding features of the evening sessions.

In order to be quite clear the public will note that all evening programmes till Saturday will be given in the Metropolitan Church. An interesting feature of the evening sessions will be a short organ recital by Prof. Warren D. Allen, a brilliant organist and Professor of Music at the University of British Columbia.

On Saturday the final evening session will be held in the Royal Victoria Theatre, commencing at 7:30 o'clock with a half-hour band concert by the 5th Coast Brigade Band, and followed by performances of the winners in the (Concluded on page 13)

RADIO POLICE CAR TOO QUICK FOR THUG

Detroit, April 16—Less than sixty seconds after a "bottle bandit" had attempted to hold up a branch bank here yesterday he was facing the drawn guns of the crew of a Detroit police department radio equipped automobile.

The police cruiser was three blocks from the scene of the hold-up when a voice from the Belle Isle police radio station announced that the People's Savings County Bank was being robbed. The car dashed for the bank and as the man ran out he was met by four policemen, who threw up their hands and surrendered.

Vancouver, April 16—No witnesses were called for the defence of Theodore Boggs, twenty-year-old student of the University of British Columbia, whose trial on manslaughter and lesser charges arising out of the death on January 13 of Edward Oliver Kaye is proceeding in the assize court here.

Prosecutor W. J. Baird closed his case at noon.

J. W. de B. Farris, K.C., defending with Gordon S. Wismer, promptly moved to have the case taken from the jury. The application was refused by Mr. Justice Gregory.

Three prosecution witnesses who testified this morning failed to solve the question, which remains for the jury, whether the accused was driving the motor car which ran down and killed Kaye at the intersection of Granville and Pacific Streets here.

Disarmament Delegates Expected To-morrow to Discuss Progressive Reduction

Geneva, April 16 (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—Germany and Soviet Russia to-day opened the proceedings in the League of Nations Preparatory Disarmament Commission. Almost as soon as the commission had started the day's session Count von Bernstorff, German delegate, challenged the proposed draft programme submitted by President London, Netherlands delegate, yesterday.

Count von Bernstorff, argued M. Loudon's proposals were contrary to the arrangement reached by the commission a year ago.

"I entirely understand the negotiations are proceeding between Governments and we should facilitate them as far as possible, but the commission can not abdicate its function, which is to secure the solution of the problem of disarmament," the German delegate declared.

CONVENTION UP FOR VOTE
Hugh S. Gibson, United States delegate, supported the president's proposed agenda. He thought that for practical purposes the agenda proposed second reading of the commission's draft convention.

RAINFALL IS SCARCE HERE
Sudden Squall Last Night Brought Short But Heavy Precipitation

Despite a whistling gale and sudden squall which brought with it a shower of rain almost resembling a cloudburst last night, Victoria is still behind its average of rainfall for the month. F. Napier Denison, superintendent of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory at Gonzales said this morning.

The storm which swept over the city and raged in the northern interior of the Province last night, left in its wake here this morning sunshine and blue skies. High southwest winds may still be expected, however, due to the northerly gale, Mr. Denison said.

MILDER CONDITION
Although conditions are unsettled all along the Coast, milder spring weather prevails in most parts the weather here. On the coast, however, temperatures have risen considerably.

Up till 5 o'clock this morning Victoria had only 12 inches of rain in the previous twenty-four hours, and on this precipitation 26 inches fell in the ten minutes following 8:15 o'clock last night when a sudden squall struck the city.

U. S. TARIFF REVISION TO BE LIMITED

President Hoover States His Views in Message to Congress on Special Session

No Discrimination Against Any Foreign Industry Proposed, He Says

Washington, April 16.—President Hoover, in a message of unusual brevity and directness, to-day recommended to Congress that in its special session a limited revision of the tariff, with a reorganization of the Tariff Commission, and creation of a federal farm board with authority and resources to remedy recurring causes of depression in the agricultural industry of the United States.

Dealing with the tariff, the President emphasized that no discrimination against any foreign industry was involved in equalizing of the different costs of production at home and abroad, and told Congress that in determining changes in the tariff account must be taken of the broad interests of the country as a whole, adding that such interests included trade relations of the United States with other countries.

In the matter of revision of tariff rates, Mr. Hoover declared the text in the main was whether there had been a substantial slackening of activity in any industry during the last (Concluded on page 15)

BOARD TO AID FARMERS OF U.S. HOOVER'S PLAN

Reorganization of Whole
Marketing System and Other Steps Advocated

Washington, April 16.—Declaring the Government had "a special mandate from the recent election not only to develop our waterways and revise the agricultural tariff, but also to extend systematic relief in other directions," President Hoover in his message read to-day to Congress at its special session, said the multiplicity of causes of the agricultural depression in the United States could only be met "by the creation of a great instrumentality clothed with sufficient authority and resources to assist the farmers to meet these problems, each upon its own merits."

FUNDS NEEDED
While calling for broad powers for the proposed Federal farm board, the chief executive suggested no amount for the revolving fund to be furnished by the Treasury. He proposed safeguards for the instrumentalities and activities to be created under the farm relief act.

"There should be no fee or tax imposed upon the farmer," he declared, adding that Government funds should be furnished only upon application of the farmer-owned and controlled agencies and then only when other services of credit and facilities are not available at reasonable rates.

Beamsville Scene of Hold-up This Afternoon; Cons- table Fires After Robbers' Automobile and They Return Volley and Are Chased in Vain by Rural Mail Carrier.

Hamilton, Ont., April 16—Two armed bandits, while their two comrades waited outside in a stolen car, entered the branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in the town of Beamsville, near here, shortly before 2 this afternoon and held up the staff. According to early reports, the men secured several hundred dollars, but missed the largest sums of currency in the building.

The bandits were masked with black handkerchiefs and carried sawed-off shotguns. The men who entered the bank scooped up the money off the teller's counter, but failed to secure a parcel on a chair nearby. That package contained several thousand dollars now believed to be the loot they were after.

The alarm given by two small boys on the street brought a constable to the scene. He fired a shot at the robbers, but the bullets missed their marks.

A rural mail carrier saw the incident and pursued the retreating car, but finally lost sight of it.

FIRST RADIO SESSION TO-DAY IS IN CAMERA

Royal Commission Gives
Cabinet and Officials Opportunity For Frank Debate

Acting Premier Pooley Refuses to Discuss Radio Finance Problems in Public

"Members of Provincial Governments will not freely discuss financial aspects of development of radio broadcasting, if they are to be quoted in the press," explained C. A. Bowman, a member of the Royal Commission on Broadcasting in Canada, when the commission opened its Victoria sessions this morning at the Parliament Buildings.

Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General and acting Premier, at an informal meeting which had just concluded in his private office, had flatly informed the commission that the views of the Provincial Governments would only be expressed at a private session.

TO ISSUE SUMMARY
The proceedings to-day are being held behind closed doors, and Sir John Aird, chairman of the commission, stated that a summary of the evidence presented by Government officials will be issued to-morrow morning, when the Royal Commission convenes for public hearings of the views of citizens and organizations interested in radio.

Sir John Aird said that it was doubtful if this policy of limited publicity to official statements would be continued at other hearings. "What we give out at one point might very well have to be altered by the time we arrive at other centres," he explained.

With a view to encouraging free expression of views held by Federal Government officials, the commission has therefore decided that special private sessions shall be held at all points precedent to the public hearings.

BEATY PRESENTS CASE

Beatty, M.P.P., one of the pioneers of broadcasting and radio development on the Pacific Coast, was active this morning in pressing to present to the commission members of the Provincial Government and officials of departments concerned in financial and educational aspects of improved radio broadcasting.

The trip is being made in connection with the survey of the P.G.E. that is being started by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways in conjunction with the Provincial Government.

OPENS FARM LOAN OFFICE IN VICTORIA

Sangster and Colleagues to Start Immediate Investigation of 1,000 Applications

Over 1,000 applications for farm loans went before Mr. Sangster, Mr. E. H. McQuigge, H. E. Tanner and Walter Patterson, when the superintendent was notified this morning by Dr. J. D. MacLean, chairman of the Canadian Loan Board, that all formalities necessary for launching the rural credits scheme in this Province had been completed.

FROM ALL OVER B.C.
These applications come from every district in the Province, from stock ranchers in the interior, fruit farmers in the Okanagan Valley and berry-growers on the coast. Application forms will reach the board from all parts of the next few days, it is expected, and each applicant will be supplied. After forms have been filled in to give the board the information it desires, appraisers will be sent out to value all farms on which loans are sought.

These appraisers will be named by the board almost immediately. Men experienced in farming operations and land values will be chosen for the work. Mr. Sangster said.

Loans will be made only on improved farms, Mr. Sangster explained. The board is empowered to loan up to 50 per cent on land values and 20 per cent on improvement values.

AT THE THEATRES

DENNY PLAYS AS MILLIONAIRE ON CAPITOL SCREEN

One of the most entertaining and really funny comedies seen in many months, "Clear the Decks," Universal's latest production, starring the fascinating Reginald Denny, is being shown at the Capitol Theatre.

It is a hurricane of laughs, and keeps the audience in a constant state of mind from the opening "shot" to the final "closeup." If the reaction of the spectators is at all accurate as an indicator, this picture should add immensely to Denny's already overwhelming popularity.

Denny portrays the part of a young millionaire, recently returned from an extensive trip to Africa, who falls in love with a strange girl whom he sees in a dining room of an exclusive hotel. He is unable to ascertain her name, but learns that she is sailing that day on an ocean voyage.

HOUSE OF LORDS

SCENE SHOWN IN "MAN WHO LAUGHS"

Everything about "The Man Who Laughs," the Universal sound production now at the Dominion Theatre, with Mary Philbin and Conrad Veidt in the starring roles, has been executed on a lavish and unprecedented scale.

The settings, the costumes, the stars and the featured players—even the extras—were the finest obtainable. Paul Leni, the director, needed atmosphere players of exceptional ability for the important parts in the depicting English nobles in session in the tremendous House of Lords set.

With the aid of the Universal casting office, Leni was able to obtain as his degree in journalism at the University of Toronto.

The featured players supporting Miss Philbin and Veidt are George Siegmann, Vera Baranovskaya, Richard Hurst, Forben Meyer, Julius Molnar Jr., Cesare Gravina, Stuart Holmes, Nick de Ruiz, Sam de Grasse, Edgar Norton, Charles Puffy, Josephine Frank, Puffy and Carmen Costello.

"BACKSTAGE" HAS TRUE ATMOSPHERE OF LIFE ON STAGE

A very novel effect in the Tiffany production, "Backstage," which is the feature attraction at the Playhouse Theatre, is the fact that in the stage scenes the illusion of the stage is kept perfect by showing the stage as it really is during the hours when the public is not in front of the house. The props and "wings" are seen leaning against the bare brick wall, while the stage settings are piled in confusion about the stage. The chorus girls are attired in their rehearsal knickers and blouses while the stage manager is putting the coryphees through their paces.

In the cast of "Backstage" are such well known film players as William Collier Jr., Barbara Bedford, Albert Vaughn, Eugene Percy, Shirley O'Hara, Gayne Whitman, Jocelyn Lee, Guinn "Big Boy" Boynton, and James Harrison.

LIFE INSURANCE BUSINESS GROWING

New York, April 16.—Total of new insurance business for United States and Canada for the first quarter of 1929, was $3,167,287,000, against $2,945,125,000 in the first quarter of 1928, according to the report of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

Business in March was $1,169,881,000, against $1,112,639,000 in March, 1928.

FINE UNDERWORLD STORY SHOWING AT COLUMBIA THEATRE

"Danger Street" is the title of the F.B.O. drama now playing at the Columbia Theatre.

This is one of the finest underworld stories ever shown here and the cast does credit to the great story. Warner Baxter has the leading role, and unlike most other thrillers, there is a wonderful note of romance given by Martha Sleeper.

Ralph Ince directed the drama taken from a story published in the Red Book and written by Harold M. Gray, author of "Luck O' the Irish." Also showing, "The Sky Ranger."

Social Life Portrayed In Coliseum Play

Attracting a good first night house at the Coliseum Theatre, under the direction of Raymond "Toby" Leitch, opened the current week at the Coliseum Theatre last evening with a stage production entitled "Putting It Over."

"Toby" Leitch is cast as the butler in the stage home instead of the chief fun maker of the play, which is his role in this part. He gives a fine impersonation of the wooden-faced donkey in this dress costume.

Miss Leona Webster plays a young lady who is in love with the butler. In several beautiful gowns as does Miss Esther Todd, another young woman of the cast. Miss Ada Daniels is a cast of "social climber" always on the lookout for the better classes. Forrest Taylor has a difficult role appearing as a "dope fiend" architect of a great dam in the first part of the play, and in the second as the young man who comes to "take the dope fiend's place and make good in the construction of the dam. Paul Wallace is a cast of a construction gang and between the acts rendered a musical selection. Louis Baxley and Leon Cluff are the hard-headed business men.

On the screen this week Warner George McEwan presents a Zane Grey story, "Avalanche," starring Jack Holt. "Avalanche" is a story of the West many years ago, portraying old-fashioned costumes and picturesque stage coaches.

VETERAN OFFERS BODY TO SCIENCE FOR RESEARCH

With Major Disabilities and No Hope of Relief He Seeks to Benefit Humanity

London, Ont., April 16.—Without hope of relief from incurable ailments, the claims are due to wartime service in the Canadian army, Leonard G. Sharnan, of 126 Briscoe St., has offered his body to any scientific organization to be used without restriction for the benefit of humanity.

"I enlisted in the 18th Battalion C.E.F. at London, Dec. 8, 1914," said Sharnan, answering questions written to him as he is now stone deaf. "The war was just four months old. I had been living and working on my parents' farm a few miles west of London."

"On April 8, 1915, I was discharged from the mobilization camp at London because during the rigorous winter I had contracted troubles affecting my hearing. On Dec. 31, 1915, I re-enlisted in the 42nd Battalion at London and passed the examination again in a physical condition."

"While I was in training at Camp Borden a rifle exploded as I was in the act of pulling the trigger. The injuries partially blinded me, and again contracted deafness and other ailments due to camp hardships. The deafness returned and at length became total."

"I was discharged from Victoria Hospital in London because other patients became afraid of infection from me, and they trumped up a false charge that I struck a nurse and set fire to the building. I have furnished the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment with letters from nurses who attended me disproving this false charge. I am unable to obtain work and the government has been unable to find anyone who can restore my health."

"I have nothing to live for but perhaps science can use me to advance scientific knowledge for the benefit of others."

He visited thirty-four countries, sang his way out of captivity in Manchuria, charmed cannibals with his voice in the South Seas, but failed to sing his way past the immigration officials in England, who classified him as a "beggar."

For sixty seconds last night the quick wits of Alderman J. L. Mara saved the City Council from the ignominy of floundering through official business "in the dark." Shortly after 9 o'clock the lighting circuits failed and the council chamber was plunged into darkness. Alderman H. O. Litchfield, on his feet at the time, proceeded with his argument, one as to how Jubilee Hospital grant should be paid. But the oppressive darkness threatened to stifle the debate until Alderman Mara's pocket lighter flashed into life. By the aid of one small gasoline flare the council resumed its business, until the electric lighting circuits again took up their work. The council decided to adjourn until the following night.

VERSED IN LITERATURE

While admitting that the literacy of India was overwhelming, Mr. Anklesaria pointed out that fifteen per cent of 45,000,000, of the people of India are literate. He said that the literacy of India was not as high as that of British dominion. "What the people of India desire is self-government based on the Canadian constitution. The superiority of the British system must be eliminated so that both can be brothers and understand each other."

MUTUAL CO-OPERATION

Mutual co-operation, he added, was required to admit the marketing of India. The time will come when all nations will be inter-dependent.

Mr. Anklesaria emphasized that the people of India were not antagonistic to British dominion. "What the people of India desire is self-government based on the Canadian constitution. The superiority of the British system must be eliminated so that both can be brothers and understand each other."

PROHIBITION MUST ENSUE

No Country Can Compete With Sober Nation, Says Dr. Crowther of Seattle

Canada to See Big Prohibition Campaign in Near Future, He Says

"Prohibition must become world-wide because no country can compete with a sober nation," declared Rev. J. E. Crowther, D.D., of the University Methodist Episcopal Church of Seattle, in the course of an address before a large audience at the Metropolitan Church last night.

Dr. Crowther predicted a big prohibition campaign in Canada in the future and urged his hearers to "do the thing thoroughly."

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Prohibition Association and commenced with hymn singing and prayer led by Dr. W. G. Wilson, R. S. Anderson presided.

"In Seattle it was felt that the liquor war was over and that the people were now enjoying the spoils of victory," said Dr. Crowther. The liquor traffic had been "demonstrated to be economically unsound, he said. It had taken what was intended for a healthful food and transformed it into a poison which was doing its worst in human society and, in many cases, a criminal."

MORALLY INDEFENSIBLE

Moreover, said the speaker, the liquor traffic had demonstrated itself as politically unfair, corrupt and utterly selfish, and, in the third place, it was morally indefensible. It was an organized sales system which took young boys and made them candidates for drunkenness. These were the reasons for prohibition.

Dr. Crowther explained that prohibition was not really new, but had its genesis long ago with the "pledge campaign." When local option was decided upon, Seattle had voted out saloons, he pointed out. In fact, before prohibition was enacted in the United States, thirty-three states out of the forty-eight had "gone dry." This represented seventy per cent of the country's population and ninety-five per cent of the land area.

"WHISKY-SODDEN" EUROPE

He stressed the need for world-wide prohibition, declaring the liquor traffic was alive to the huge vested interests concerned. Money was being poured into the United States from "whisky-sodden Europe" in order to discredit prohibition, he maintained.

"Prior to Dr. Crowther's address, Rev. R. J. McIntyre of Vancouver outlined the three methods of liquor control in Canada. First was the old license scheme, secondly prohibition and thirdly government control. Under the "prohibited" government control, the liquor stores had sold over $13,000,000 worth of liquor last year.

"Salvage" Lost Chord by Fred Wright and Orville "Solovay" Smith and Wagner's "Elsa's Traum," by Mrs. Arthur Dowell, were the solo numbers rendered during the meeting.

ICHIMATSU TOKUMATO, JAPANESE, EXECUTED

Regina, April 16.—Ichimatsu Tokumato, Japanese, was hanged at 5 a.m. today at the Regina Jail. He went to his death with a smile.

Tokumato was executed for the murder of Mrs. Kura Takato, Japanese, in the Sun Rooms in Moose Jaw last November 20. He had purchased a ticket and made reservations for a trip prior to visiting Mrs. Takato. When he attempted to force his attentions on her, there was a struggle in which Tokumato slashed the Japanese woman with a large knife. Leaving the wounded woman in the corridor, where she was found a few minutes later by her husband returning from work, he rushed out the back door and went to the Canadian Pacific Railway bunkhouse.

In the bunkhouse he was preparing to commit suicide when accosted by fellow-countrymen, who prevailed upon him to give himself up to the police. Accompanied by one of them, he walked to the police station and confessed his crime. The trial was of short duration at Moose Jaw on January 20 and 21, the death sentence being the first to be passed on a Japanese in Saskatchewan.

At 10 o'clock, however, Mr. Hughes established his ministerial fame while leading that party. It has never forgiven his transference to the National Party, which was formed after the war-time conscription crisis. Denied alliance with any party, he would have the status of a private member. Yet he has not. What could he achieve with half-a-dozen pledged followers? Mr. Hughes has for five years been out of office, yet he remains the most magnetic personality in Australian political life.

WARM DEBATE IN AUSTRALIA

Interest Grows in Possible Move By Ex-Premier Hughes

Canberra, Australia, (By Mail).—Interest in Federal politics centres more and more in the attitude of Rt. Hon. W. M. Hughes, whose onslaughts on the Bruce-Page Government, of which he was a supporter, grew more frequent. The latest exchange, provoked by differences on the tariff, between the ex-Premier and the treasurer, who is a medical man, had a wealth of pathological metaphor novel even in Parliamentary rhetoric.

"An analysis of his statement," said Dr. Page, "makes one ask oneself: is this a sign of a tottering intellect or an implicit spirit of mischief designed to disrupt the alliance between the Nationalist and Country Parties. The old abuses of spite and venom now seems to have become a running sore, and the matter is still poisonous."

"Every time Dr. Page opens his mouth," he reveals his character more clearly," Mr. Hughes retorted. "When the limits of distortion have been reached he falls back on personal abuse. And when he does this he can never get far away from the operating table. His denials are not a word and a running sore. It is the man who talks about the 'ideals of Australia' that have been realized during his regime. I levelled the word from his lips is rank blasphemy."

PERSONAL MAGNETISM
The Opposition (Labor) watches eagerly for any sign of serious division in the Government ranks. Mr. Hughes appears to have at least two strong supporters, and the Government's majority is slender enough for actual defeat by a very small "cave" to mean defeat. The ex-Premier's personal magnetism naturally provokes speculation as to what he would do if he actually broke with the National Party. His recent ironical suggestion that the farmers would profit more from his leadership than from Dr. Page's implied the impossibility of support from that quarter. At 10 o'clock, however, Mr. Hughes established his ministerial fame while leading that party. It has never forgiven his transference to the National Party, which was formed after the war-time conscription crisis. Denied alliance with any party, he would have the status of a private member. Yet he has not. What could he achieve with half-a-dozen pledged followers? ## Ex-Premier Meighen Speaks in Vancouver

Vancouver, April 16.—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, former Premier of Canada, addressed the Vancouver Canadian Club yesterday.

"When people realize they are never going to reach the goal of peace except by compromise, compromise is going to be reached," he said, describing the advances made in scientific warfare. Mr. Meighen said war today would be world suicide. Peace was imperative, he declared. The speaker said the Anglo-French naval pact, which was abandoned, was an honest effort to get together in a spirit of compromise, and not an attempt for mutual gains.

Mr. Meighen traced the formation of the Preparatory Committee. The British Empire, he said, in the United States, as well as in Canada, nor was it wholly eliminated now.

TO SAVE TIME ON FINANCE BILLS

Two Measures Instead of One to Be Laid Before British Commons

London, April 16.—Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in his budget speech in the House of Commons yesterday, said Great Britain's balance of trade had steadily improved and the community had displayed its power to invest capital abroad by an increase in foreign investments from $430,000,000 in 1924 to $745,000,000 in 1928.

Now capital issues for home investment had shown an increase of $500,000,000 since 1924.

GROWTH SEEN
"Whatever may be the condition of particular industries or particular localities," Mr. Churchill remarked, "there is no doubt we dwell to-day in a more powerful, more wealthy, more securely founded country than we did five years ago, and compared with most European countries, we are regaining our pre-war level. Our progress though has been relatively far outstripped by the United States, which gained great advantages during the war and has displayed a higher stability of purpose ever since."

This last observation provoked a somewhat mild demonstration, but the meaning of it in such a crowded House was not to be denied.

SAVINGS ON ARMAMENTS
"The greatest economy effected in this Parliament has been on armaments," said Mr. Churchill, resuming the entirely serious note of his speech.

The navy, the army and the Air Force have yielded savings of more than $37,500,000. The Labor Government laid down five cruisers which cost £1,000,000. The First Lord of the Admiralty in the Labor Ministry, only $7,500,000, but which have cost the present First Lord upwards of $50,000,000. Great credit is due to the First Lord of the Admiralty (Right Hon. William Bridgeman) for the way in which he has provided, for the heavy cost of the navy without any appreciable increase in the estimate.

"If you take the increase of the non-effective services and the transference of the fleet arm to the navy the actual diminution is about $250,000. This represents five years of careful work, which naturally went against the grain of the naval men, and I am sure they have carried it out."

TWO FINANCE BILLS
Many members were leaving the House when Mr. Churchill sprang a little surprise not actually connected with taxation details. Owing to the imminence of the general election the Government proposed to have two finance bills. The first would contain only the provisions necessary to express the Government's policy and carry on the public service. All complicated details would be left to the new Parliament.

"It will not therefore be open," he said, "for honorable members to move a long series of new clauses setting forth electioneering lures and wiles, until after the general election has taken place."

SEATTLE-ALASKA FLIGHT MADE

Juneau, Alaska, April 16.—Completing the first Seattle-Alaska non-stop flight in the total elapsed time of 7 hours and 43 minutes, Pilot Ansel C. 248 Pacific coast time yesterday afternoon, and settled his Lockheed Vega seaplane on the harbor five minutes later.

The plane soared into the air from Flynn Warfield, near Renton, Wash., at 7 o'clock yesterday morning and carried beside the pilot Jack Hailoran, mechanic, and Robert E. Ellis, navigator.

The fliers encountered some rain, strong winds and fog, which slowed them up to some extent.

GREAT FISSURE MADE BY QUAKE IN NEW ZEALAND

Christchurch, N.Z. (By Mail).—A large earth fissure of enormous depth was discovered among the hills west of the junction of the Waimakariri and Bealey Rivers. It is thought the chasm indicates the major fault of the earthquake which practically destroyed the settlement of Arthur's Pass. The fissure will be measured by a member of the Geological Survey. Heavy stones dropped into its mysterious depths cannot be heard to strike bottom anywhere.

Late at night a deafening roar from the interior of the hills surrounding Arthur's Pass terrified the inhabitants. A moment later the earth moved, and in a few seconds tanks and chimneys were crashing through twisted houses. Fleeing into the open, the refugees spent a wretched night in the rain. When daylight came they saw huge cracks in the roads, and subsidence and earthshakes on all sides.

West coast towns suffered less. In Christchurch the cathedral bells were set ringing, and there was a dramatic interlude to "The Vagabond King," playing to a crowded house at the Theatre Royal. The building was shaken immediately before the last act, and in the gallery, where the movement was felt most, women began to shriek. Just then the conductor signalled to the orchestra and the audience calmed down and heard the performance through.

Man Approved For Game Warden By Princeton People

Princeton, B.C. April 16.—A recommendation that W. A. "Podunk" Davis be made permanent game warden of this section was adopted by the Princeton Board of Trade last night. The board based its recommendation not only as considering him worthy of reward for his rescue of Nurse Warburton and his long record of real service to the valley, but also on his practical knowledge of the country and its wild life.

ELEVATED HIGHWAYS

Miss Irene Fulton Tells How Cuticura Healed Eczema

"Eczema started on my face in hard, red pimples which in a few days would break and then scale over. While it was in this scaly form my face would itch and burn, and the irritation prevented me from sleeping or getting any rest. The trouble lasted about four months. I used several remedies but they did not seem to help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they relieved the itching and burning, and in about five weeks I was completely healed, after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Miss Irene H. Fulton, Fairboro, N. S., Sept. 17, 1928.

Cuticura Soap to cleanse and purify, Cuticura Ointment to soothe and heal, and Cuticura Talcum to powder and refresh, are ideal for daily toilet purposes.

NOW WHAT?

THE PREDICTION THAT GER-many would ask for still further reductions in her reparations bill already has come true. Dr. Schacht informed the allied commission in Paris this morning that the annuities proposed to him last Saturday exceed his country's capacity to pay.

It required just nine weeks of almost continuous discussion to agree upon a new scale of payments to replace the Dawes plan. It was not an easy matter to persuade France to pare down her demands so that they might more nearly harmonize with the total sum her allies were prepared to accept. Common ground eventually was discovered; but all the labor seems to have been in vain—that is, if Dr. Schacht's word on this proposal is to be the last one as far as Germany is concerned.

All through the sittings of the commission the German delegates proved themselves to be excellent listeners. They made no offers themselves; they merely left all the initiative to the allies' representatives. Dr. Schacht spent the week-end considering the final proposal. It has not proved acceptable. The question now is: What are the allies going to do about it?

This point might have been answered easily before Locarno, before Germany's admission to the League of Nations. France, for example, might have embarked upon another Ruhr adventure. But the employment of force now, the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles notwithstanding, obviously is out of the question.

OUTDOING JULES VERNE

ONE BY ONE, THE IMPROBABLE romances that delighted an earlier generation are being turned by modern science into something very like the truth.

When Jules Verne wrote his "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," he proved himself one of the most daringly imaginative writers who ever lived. He depicted a gigantic submarine, fitted out with all the splendor of a private yacht, in which people could cruise about the world, descend to the bottom of the sea, explore the secrets of the great deep, and, in general, live like wizards.

No submarine of that kind has yet been built, although the giant-cruising submarines launched since the war by the British and American navies do not fall far short of Verne's mark. But Sir Hubert Wilkins, famous polar flier, is now planning to duplicate the most far-fetched and improbable part of the whole tale. He plans to go to the North Pole by submarine.

If you have read Verne's book, you will recall that the most exciting part of it dealt with the inventor's trip to the South Pole. Verne assumed that there was water instead of land at the South Pole—water, covered with limitless ice floes. He had his submarine dive under these floes and gain the pole, where no other ship could have come within hundreds of miles of it; and his account of the submarine's adventures on its way north, when it got imprisoned beneath an iceberg and nearly became a tomb for its crew, is one of the most thrilling things in fiction.

Thrilling—and improbable. Even a generation that knows what submarines did in the World War is inclined to balk at that part of the book.

Yet that is precisely what Wilkins proposes to do.

Using a specially equipped submarine, Wilkins plans to dive under the great Arctic ice floes and go to the North Pole just as Verne had his boat go to the South Pole. He is making allowances for the predicament of Verne's crew, too; his submarine will have a special lock, so that if it is caught under the ice a diver can go out and plant explosives that will open the ice and allow the ship to come to the surface. It will also carry chemicals that can be used to melt the ice.

The proposal looks like as risky a jaunt as a man could well imagine. Yet Wilkins, while admitting there will be an element of danger, thinks that the trip, on the whole, will be rather less risky than trips across the Polar ocean by plane. His submarine is now being prepared, and he hopes to get started in July.

A few years ago Verne's book was considered just about the most wildly improbable tale in all literature. Now its essential elements are being fulfilled in a way that probably would have surprised Verne himself as much as any of his readers. The plain facts of to-day eclipse the imaginative wonders of a generation ago.

NOT FOR SALE

ONCE AGAIN A MEMBER OF Parliament at Ottawa has suggested that Canada should annex the West Indies.

There was a suggestion some time ago that the British West Indies might be traded off to the United States as part payment of Great Britain's debt to the republic.

Canada has as much territory and as many troubles as she can handle without searching for more. When the late President Harding was in Vancouver six years ago he said something similar about the United States.

People who talk about annexing and trading countries which do not belong to them seem to forget an important point. They leave out of the question the feelings of the people who would have to be included in the transaction. When the people of the West Indies ask to be annexed by Canada or sold to the United States it will be time enough to consider the proposal seriously.

Meanwhile, Canada's principal interest in that part of the Empire should be the development of trade under the provisions of the treaty which already is in operation.

FLYING TO THE EXPOSITION

IF AVIATION IN THIS COUNTRY develops with anything like the speed that the leaders in the industry are predicting—and there isn't any very good reason for thinking it will not—we are going to see a growth that will surprise us.

Here is an example: Chicago is going to hold a great international exposition in 1934. And aviation leaders are predicting now that Chicago's hotels will not be overcrowded, no matter how great the throngs that go to see it. Why? Because, they say, aviation will be so far developed by that time that visitors will stop in cities like Detroit, Cleveland, Indianapolis and St. Louis, if they cannot find accommodations in Chicago, and will fly back and forth to the exposition daily.

That sounds almost incredible. Yet it is, obviously, quite within the realm of possibilities. The aeroplane may yet work as profound a change in the world's social and economic organization as the automobile has done.

CHECKING RUSSIA OVER

NOBODY RELISHES THE IDEA OF trading off having anything to do with a nation which breaks its word and loses no opportunity of making as much trouble as possible. Soviet Russia is guilty of a charge of this kind and British countries are not inclined to trust her until she shall have shown herself more worthy of their confidence than she has done so far.

It, therefore, is just as well that Russia's whole industrial and economic system now is being fully inquired into by a large delegation of businessmen from Great Britain, for very largely upon what its members discover in the Soviet domain the commercial policy, if not the political policy, of the United Kingdom in the near future may be determined. These captains of industry represent something like $1,250,000,000 worth of capital and their objective, of course, is Russian trade.

It is only natural, however, that they should desire to see for themselves just what conditions are like; and in their cases they will see only what they want to see. Soviet side-shows and the familiar propaganda will make no impression upon them.

LIGHTING UP AUTOMATICALLY

"ENGINEERING," AN OLD COUN-try publication, describes an instrument for automatically switching on the lights of a motor car which has been left unattended. The instrument, which is about the size of a speedometer, and can be fitted on the dashboard, or in any other convenient position, comprises a dial on which time intervals up to six hours are graduated in units of fifteen minutes. The dial is turned by means of a knob, so that the length of time from that at which the instrument is set to the lighting-up time appears opposite a pointer, and when that time has elapsed the lights will be switched on. The instrument uses no current, and no winding, other than that involved in turning the knob to set the instrument; is required; its employment does not interfere with the control of the lights by switches in the ordinary way. Similar instruments for switching on or off lights, heaters and other electrical appliances in shops, houses, garages, and so on, are in course of preparation.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

WOMEN IN POLITICS

The Manchester Guardian

At the annual meeting of the National Union of Societies for Equal Citizenship a woman speaker urged that only able women should be allowed to get into Parliament. As it was said, some "silly women" got in just as "silly men" did. Did she remember Mrs. Poyner's remark? "I am not denying that women are foolish. God Almighty made them to match the men." That is the truth of the matter. But foolishness is a relative term, and if the council has its way it is clear that they will force an improvement in the standard of intelligence in the House of Commons.

Loose Ends

H. B. W.

IT TAKES something pretty serious to agitate the Manchester Guardian, which has watched countless political upheavals and national crises without a tremor. It is something pretty serious to turn out to be nothing less than the Prince of Wales's appearance, as a boogymatch the other night with "a medium grey pullover covering a soft dress shirt," this alien garment apparently being the counterpart of what we less euphorically call a sweater. The Guardian wonders rather wearily whether this, like many of the Prince's clothes, is going to start the fashion of hiding evening dress shirts under a pullover (which really wouldn't be a bad idea and certainly economical), but it suggests, with faint hope, that maybe His Royal Highness had simply forgotten to remove this objectionable garment after a cold drive, or that it was worn by the other gentlemen attending the fistic encounter might not think him "unduly toffed up."

THERE IS more to this shocking story. The Guardian reveals that the Prince created a panic a short time ago by appearing at midday in a morning coat and, on borrowed striped trousers which were "permanently turned up," was not attempting to force permanently-turned-up trousers with morning coats upon a defenceless people. He had simply forgotten, as we bar-barians would say, to change his pants after lunch, and had absent-mindedly left his permanently-turned-down ones at home.

BUT WHAT The Guardian really views with alarm is not these incidents, disconcerting as they are. What The Guardian really views with alarm is the photograph of the Prince and Mr. Baldwin during the Canadian tour in full morning dress and (don't read further if your blood pressure is above 112 degrees Fahrenheit) yes, in full morning dress and straw hats! "To this day," laments The Guardian, "that terrible picture remains an unexplained scandal in the otherwise staid history of our island race." The great British journal evidently does not realize what a sturdy people we Canadians are. We can stand the Prince and the Prime Minister in our midst in morning dress and straw hats. We can stand trousers permanently turned up or permanently turned down without a blush. We can even vote for our own Prime Minister after seeing pictures of them poured into Windsor uniforms with silk stockings, when Nature never intended their figures for any such thing. A people who can endure sights like these is not going to quail before a straw hat or a mere medium-grey pullover hiding a white dress shirt.

THE AMERICAN home, about which statesmen, scholars and psychanalysts have been worrying themselves sick for a long time, is safe at last. In one of those spontaneous flashes of inspiration that sometimes come from above, the Republic has just been given the means of its salvation. It came from no less a person than the celebrated Miss Texas Guinan, after she had been acquitted of bootlegging charges by a jury which Mr. Arthur Brisbane rather snootily calls "smiling and middle-aged."

NOW, MISS GUINAN, as all civilized peoples have learned in the last few days, exists a modern living of $3,000 a week by being "the life and soul" of a New York night club, which Mr. Brisbane says is as wet as the deepest place in the Pacific, and where she quite truthfully greets all her guests with the charming salutation, "Hello, Sucker!" Well, after Miss Guinan had been declared innocent of bootlegging charges, Mr. Brisbane says protects the individual, "and especially the individual of curling hair and trembling lip." Miss Guinan recorded these words of ripe wisdom: "Light up your life with a smile. Then see how much better you feel. Make your home a night club."

THERE YOU have the simple solution of the world's most difficult social problem. It is so simple, indeed, that the only mystifying thing about it is why the statesmen, scholars and psychanalysts never hit on it before. "Make your home a night club by all means, keep the boys and girls in the dark, preserve the foundations of our family life in America over to Miss Guinan and that spacious, middle-aged and smiling jury."

IT IS a late Spring, and nowhere is it more keenly felt than on the Causeway. The gallant little band of kindly old gentlemen who spend half the year on the beautiful shores of the Russian Revolution Hotel began to assemble for their annual session in the sunny days of March, but the rigors of this incontinent April drove them away again. A few more sunny days, however, and they will be back once more with their tanks thinned, no doubt, by the winter, but with new recruits to fill the empty place.

ONE HOPES that the Spring, if it ever does come, will bring back the quaint old fellow who used to go down to the Causeway betimes in the morning to converse with the others there, but could never remain awake long enough to finish his first pipeful of tobacco. The old prairie farmer with the white beard who loved to give his views on politics to anyone who would listen and to many others who wouldn't; and most of all, the dear old chap who has thought for a decade or more that he is the Ambassador to Canada of the late Romanoff Government of Russia, the slight event of the Russian Revolution apparently having escaped his notice. Every Spring for many years he became active in his official duties, and frequently called on members of the Provincial Government to urge them to embark on some statesmanlike policy which was not clear. He was always treated with respect at the Parliament Buildings and returned to the Causeway satisfied that under his care the relations between His Majesty's Government in Canada and the Imperial Government of the Russian Czar were on the most friendly footing. It took a lot of time and money to build the Causeway, but it was well worth it.

AT THE south end of the Causeway the Government is getting ready for the Spring by having the giant flagpole there repainted. If you talk with the gentleman who is performing this highly dangerous feat while dangling 100 feet in the air you will find out a lot about flagpoles and life. This flagpole is no ordinary flagpole, it is a pole painter. He brings to his work the accumulated knowledge of a lifetime at sea, adventures in Egypt, narrow escapes from headhunters in the South Seas and many other things. But more than that, he brings to the flagpole the touch of the true artist, for in private life he paints landscapes in oils which I have not seen but which he assures me are far finer than many of the poor dabs that sell as paintings now-a-days. Only the necessity of spending most of his time perched up on flagpoles keeps him from devoting himself entirely to real art—that and an admitted deficiency in the knowledge of perspective which, however, he attempts to acquire from a perspective teacher some time when flagpole painting is particularly lustrous. Besides all that, he is an unequalled connoisseur of flagpoles. He knows every flagpole in British Columbia and which ones need painting and he paints the better ones. But as for such-and-such a street near the Inner Harbor, why, sir, he wouldn't condescend to paint 'em, sir, at no price, sir, that he wouldn't!

BRIDLE PATHS

To the Editor:—May I ask space for a letter thanking Mr. Carley of the Victoria Riding Academy for all he has done to help to bring back the sport and healthful exercise obtained through horsemanship in Victoria and suburbs have many beautiful places where trails and bridle paths could be laid out. Many of our Summer tourists would take advantage of this sport. It would also increase the interest in the saddle horse, and be a premier attraction for the city.

GERM THEORISTS

To the Editor:—"Interested," in a letter published on April 12, accuses myself and others of writing letters on germs as a hobby and of flying vaccination and inoculation. This correction of the writer's letter is a little written, and says so plainly. Did they coincide with "Interested" own trend of thought, they would no doubt be more welcome.

The writer makes an effort to arrange and finance, with the permission of the authorities, a demonstration to prove the sincerity of the anti-germ theorists, using "bacteria" that do not cause epidemic diseases. Personally, I have never feared vaccination or inoculation because of germs given in this way. The writer's extended invitation to all bacteriologists in Ontario, all of whom refused to fall in with the suggestion. However, these tests can do nothing to arrange. It would, of course, be necessary to have the co-operation of the U.S.A., which must undertake to publish the results of the tests. The tests and put themselves on record (if the tests were negative) as agreeing that germs do not cause disease. The co-operation of some well-known and germ theorists, such as John Fraser, M.D., of Toronto, would also be required, but if "Interested" likes to call at my office I will further discuss the proposition.

This correspondent is "not a champion of vaccination, but would submit to it if necessary." In the opinion of an ever-increasing number of really interested persons, it never has been necessary or desirable; moreover, the bacteria of smallpox, to which "Interested" alludes, have never been discovered.

"Interested" fears that myself and other correspondents get our information from circulars of unreliable origin and is surprised that some of the medical profession do not put us in our places, particularly as we are just getting ourselves before the public eye by false writings which we do not really believe in. We are only craving for self-advertisement. "Interested" reason for writing is an unwillingness to see science torn to pieces and a desire to see it built up. What is higher than Truth? How shall we find the truth unless we have written words? I believe like to point out that there is no such thing as "medical science," for medical theories and methods change from year to year.

May I say for your correspondent's

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The Victoria Daily Times, April 16, 1904

Judging by the influx of Easterners during the last year and this, coupled with the sentiments expressed by them, and the writers of letters which are constantly being received by real estate dealers, Victoria will soon become to the Dominion, what Los Angeles is to the American Union.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Victoria Board of Trade yesterday afternoon started somewhat like the hostilities in the Far East, in a rather striking fashion.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and Vicinity—Light to moderate winds, partly cloudy, with occasional showers. A meeting was held last evening in the City Hall of the citizens of Victoria and it was decided to celebrate May 24 in the usual way. A regatta on the Arm will be the big feature of the day. Later a programme of sports may be arranged for the forenoon. Steamer Venture left for Ladysmith this morning, and after taking on bunker coal will proceed to Prince of Wales Island for a load of ore. D. G. S. Quadra, which is due back from the north next week, where she had taken Captain Gaudin on a tour of inspection, will be sent to the West Coast of this Island as soon as she returns with building material for the new lighthouse to be built on Leonard Island.

In spite of the attempts at various times to prove that Victoria's insular position deprives her of her chances to become a great shipping centre, from time to time it is found that great transportation companies turn their attention to this city in an endeavor to make it the terminus of their transcontinental railway lines, and the connecting point for Oriental and northern trade.

Information that supporters of the anti-germ theory and opponents of vaccination and inoculation include men (past and present) of the highest scientific and medical standing, such as Professor Alfred Russell Wallace (England's most noted scientist), Sir Granville Bantock, Dr. Creighton, Dr. Cruikshank, Professor Bechamp of Montpellier University (the original propounder of the theory that germs are the result of a diseased condition and not the cause of the disease), Dr. Seale, Professor of Physics at Cambridge University, Dr. Chowry Muthu, Dr. W. R. Hadwen, J.P., and Prof. Rudolph Virchow, who said: "If I could live my life over again, I would devote it to proving that germs seek their natural habitat—diseased tissue—rather than being the cause of diseased tissue."

There are just a few of the "unreliable sources" from which we get our information. But it may not have occurred to "Interested" that there are people who do not propound or uphold theories for the sake of self-advertisement or financial gain. For what purpose would they advertise, and what advantage would it be to them to do so; and finally, whose good opinion could they possibly be seeking?

ORIGIN OF THE GERM THEORY

To the Editor:—Last week your correspondence columns contained a very illuminating letter on "Germ Transmission," by Mrs. G. W. R. Hadwen, M.D., J.P., and a reply by the Bio-Chemical Society are doing to rout the theory that germs cause disease. May I supplement Mrs. Green's contribution with a further contribution to that theory, giving particularly, along with the views of some others, that of W. R. Hadwen, M.D., J.P., and a reply by the Bio-Chemical Society are doing to rout the theory that germs cause disease.

May I supplement Mrs. Green's contribution with a further contribution to that theory, giving particularly, along with the views of some others, that of W. R. Hadwen, M.D., J.P., and a reply by the Bio-Chemical Society are doing to rout the theory that germs cause disease.

One heartily wishes that the moral argument against animal experimentation were sufficient alone to render that of its utility needless, so completely selfish and unchristian is it in even trying to pass over our suffering to other creatures, and of which some of those used are extremely sensitive to the pain inflicted. But it has become only too sadly evident that but few germ theorists are big enough to accept and act upon that belief; so one must continue to stress the fact of its manifest uselessness.

There is another preliminary consideration, even with the most earnest people the thought prevails that in this matter, experts alone should pass judgment, and undertake for us. Surely the view above and the demonstration to prove the sincerity of the anti-germ theorists, using "bacteria" that do not cause epidemic diseases. Personally, I have never feared vaccination or inoculation because of germs given in this way.

The offer to make the suggested tests has already been made by the Bio-Chemical Society of Toronto, who extended its invitation to all bacteriologists in Ontario, all of whom refused to fall in with the suggestion. However, these tests can do nothing to arrange. It would, of course, be necessary to have the co-operation of the U.S.A., which must undertake to publish the results of the tests. The tests and put themselves on record (if the tests were negative) as agreeing that germs do not cause disease. The co-operation of some well-known and germ theorists, such as John Fraser, M.D., of Toronto, would also be required, but if "Interested" likes to call at my office I will further discuss the proposition.

This correspondent is "not a champion of vaccination, but would submit to it if necessary." In the opinion of an ever-increasing number of really interested persons, it never has been necessary or desirable; moreover, the bacteria of smallpox, to which "Interested" alludes, have never been discovered.

"Interested" fears that myself and other correspondents get our information from circulars of unreliable origin and is surprised that some of the medical profession do not put us in our places, particularly as we are just getting ourselves before the public eye by false writings which we do not really believe in. We are only craving for self-advertisement. "Interested" reason for writing is an unwillingness to see science torn to pieces and a desire to see it built up. What is higher than Truth? How shall we find the truth unless we have written words? I believe like to point out that there is no such thing as "medical science," for medical theories and methods change from year to year.

May I say for your correspondent's

ORIGIN OF THE GERM THEORY

To the Editor:—Last week your correspondence columns contained a very illuminating letter on "Germ Transmission," by Mrs. G. W. R. Hadwen, M.D., J.P., and a reply by the Bio-Chemical Society are doing to rout the theory that germs cause disease.

May I supplement Mrs. Green's contribution with a further contribution to that theory, giving particularly, along with the views of some others, that of W. R. Hadwen, M.D., J.P., and a reply by the Bio-Chemical Society are doing to rout the theory that germs cause disease.

One heartily wishes that the moral argument against animal experimentation were sufficient alone to render that of its utility needless, so completely selfish and unchristian is it in even trying to pass over our suffering to other creatures, and of which some of those used are extremely sensitive to the pain inflicted.

But it has become only too sadly evident that but few germ theorists are big enough to accept and act upon that belief; so one must continue to stress the fact of its manifest uselessness.

There is another preliminary consideration, even with the most earnest people the thought prevails that in this matter, experts alone should pass judgment, and undertake for us. Surely the view above and the demonstration to prove the sincerity of the anti-germ theorists, using "bacteria" that do not cause epidemic diseases. Personally, I have never feared vaccination or inoculation because of germs given in this way.

ZONING BY-LAW WINS SUPPORT

Douglas Street Owners Com-mend Retail Use South of Fort Street

The City Zoning By-law was completed in its amended form by the City Council last night and referred to the City Solicitor for the wording of final details after the public hearing provided for by the Town Planning Act.

A delegation of property owners on Douglas Street, south of Fort Street, requested an exclusive commercial classification of both sides of Douglas Street from Fort Street south to Humboldt, and west along Humboldt to the Union Club, for retail purposes to the exclusion of further garage premises. J. H. Beatty, M.P.P., spokesman for the delegation, said that the majority of owners were represented, and that they regarded this area as a high class retail district. If there was any intention of permitting further garage use, over and above what was already authorized, the owners would like an opportunity of being heard in protest of this plan, stated Mr. Beatty. W. S. Terry, Fred Landsberg and others supported this view, and a similar request was received by letter from Robert Smith.

Mayor Herbert Anscomb assured the delegation that the Council had already reached the same decision, and the amended zoning by-law would limit both east and west sides of Douglas Street, between Fort and Humboldt Streets, to a "commercial zone" or retail zone.

NO FURTHER EXTENSIONS
This brings all Douglas Street between the Hudson's Bay block and the Empress Hotel into the same classification, and prohibits further garage extension in the area, it was explained. Existing premises, or premises already authorized, will not be affected.

Satisfied with this assurance, the delegation thanked the council for the hearing and withdrew. The council also heard representations from individual owners in relation to neighborhood store locations sought on Quadra Street, Richmond Road, and other parts of the city. Permits will be granted in two cases where what is asked does not conflict with the spirit of the zoning law. Piloted in committee by Alderman W. T. Strain, the by-law ran its final course before the council, and was adopted for final drafting in its completed form.

CITY ORDERS LIGHT SUPPLIES

City Council Calls For Tenders on $100,000 Hospital Bond Issue

Tenders were accepted by the City Council last night for various supplies required in the city lighting department. The Canadian General Electric will supply 17,500 electrodes, six arc lamps, rectifier tubes, globes and other gear, for $5,261; 432 twelve-inch globes, for $277.60; and waterproof cable for $200.50.

Hawkins and Hayward will furnish 2,000 forty-candle-power lights for $643.86, and 150 lights of 600 candle power for $429.24. The Northern Electric Company will supply 144 fourteen-inch globes for $403.60; the B.C. Hardware, 2,000 eight-candle-candle-power lights for $643.26; and Thomas Bates and Sons, cedar poles for $608.

Evans, Coleman and Evans were awarded the contract for the supply of seven tons of pig lead. Tenders on fire engine apparatus required were received and passed to the fire warden and purchasing agent for analysis and report.

TO REPAIR TRACK
The council decided to spend $250 at Royal Athletic Park for incidental repairs to the cycle track in time for the May 24 celebrations.

Tenders will be invited for the painting of the exterior wall of the City Market Building on the Cormorant Street side. The fire hall is being painted outside at a cost of $600, and the council will now accept bids on extending this renovation to the market building alongside.

Repairs, painting and other work required at the Isolation Hospital, at an estimated cost of $1,515 will be done by day labor, under the city building officials, it was decided.

TENDERS FOR BONDS

Tenders will be called, returnable on May 5, for the $100,000 debenture issue the city will float to finance its share of the cost of the new Jubilee Nurses' Home. The cost of the work, as announced, will be $150,000, of which the city is to find $100,000, the Province $50,000, and the remainder is to come from hospital sources. The city deferred flotation as long as possible, due to the state of the bond market, but as the work is proceeding, bids are now to be called for the issue.

DIVORCE IS SUBJECT OF LONG DEBATE

Commons, With Forty-five Bills Before It, Makes Progress on Two

Eastern Provinces, Having No Divorce Courts, Interested in Discussion

Ottawa, April 16.—The present method of handling divorce bills in the House of Commons was the subject of a lengthy debate yesterday. The discussion started early in the afternoon, when the members found themselves confronted with a list of forty-five of these measures all standing for second reading.

The debate brought a contribution from one member of the Government, Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, who pointed out to the House it was impossible for it to do all committee work. He reminded members of the care with which the Senate divorce committee carried on its work.

It would be inconvenient and equivalent, in the eastern provinces which had no divorce courts, to denying divorce altogether to duplicate the Senate machinery in the House. That was the whole reason, Mr. Dunning thought, this matter of duplication.

WOODSWORTH'S ARGUMENTS
When the first bill came up for second reading, J. B. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre, opposed it. He later led the opposition to the second bill. He made it clear he was not opposing divorce. Still less was he opposing the individual applications, because, he declared, members of the Commons could not be expected to familiarize themselves with the details of all divorce bills. He was opposing the principle of dealing with legislation of which the members knew little or nothing.

NO PARTY LINES
Finally the first bill was put through, a record vote resulting in the approval of second reading by a majority of thirty-five. Party lines were ignored in the division and the number of votes reported was small. But again the opposition broke out when the House took up the second bill, the sponsor of which was present. An effort to prevent discussion of this bill, which consisted in moving "that the question be now put," met with defeat by seven votes.

After an entire day spent in debate on these bills the net result was that two out of forty-five had moved forward one stage in their progress. The discussion will proceed to-night between 8 and 9 o'clock, when an hour will be devoted to consideration of private bills.

Yesterday's debate was not the first heard of divorce this session. An effort was made some time ago to obtain divorce court for Ontario when Mr.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

JEALOUSY A PRIMITIVE EMOTION

A Steady Reader writes:
"I am a constant reader and I do live your ideas and advice, but you weren't half strong enough with the mother who wrote about her child of nineteen months being jealous. Who ever heard of such a thing? The child wouldn't know what it meant."

"My little boy would cry, too, if my husband and I would embrace, but he would come near and then we would take him and let him join us, and in a very short time he wouldn't pay any attention to us, as we never did it to tease him."

"It isn't jealousy that is in their little hearts; it is a desire to have some pleasure, too, and because they have no one else to play with, and because they want to do like adults do. When they can't express their feelings they have to cry. People are so funny, they think a child should know more than they do, and when they can't express their feelings they are punished. I wish you many, many years at your work."

ANSWER
Jealousy is a primitive emotion and children can feel it long before they know any name for it. You see, you have expressed most accurately the exact motive that makes the child cry. He wants to be right in the middle of a situation instead of standing on one side, allowing other people to enjoy it without him. What, dear Mrs. Steady Reader, is that except jealousy? We have a name for it and the child hasn't, but the thing that makes him cry and be necessary to clear the galleries. He was almost afraid to drop the pamphlets into a wastepaper basket, he said, for fear they would fall into the hands of some of the staff of the House.

TOO MUCH TO READ

Mr. Woodsworth said he had in his room the printed evidence of sixty divorce cases, none of which he had read. He doubted if any member of the House had read them all. If he had, he would be in the same condition as a garbage can.

Mr. Woodsworth said he intended to ask for roll call votes to be taken in the House on divorce bills. Those who were against divorce must get up and say so. Responsibility for refusal to grant divorces should rest upon those opposed to them on conscientious grounds. He would vote against those bills of which he had no knowledge merely as a protest against the principle involved.

QUESTION OF REMARRIAGE

A. M. Carmichael, Progressive, Kindersley, Sask., said he had no objection to the passage of the preamble of the first bill, nor had he any ground on which to oppose the dissolution of the marriage clause, but he did object to that portion of the bill which would allow the divorcee to marry again. He quoted from laws "higher in authority than any act of any Parliament," which would not allow him to reconcile and remarry with divorce.

Dr. A. M. Young, Liberal, Saskatoon, said the attention of the country should be drawn to a practice that was not proper in the ending of marriages.

H. E. Spencer, U.F.A., Battle River, declared he would vote against all such motions as that which was at present before the House.

DUTIES OF MEMBERS

Brig.-General J. A. Clark, Conservative, Vancouver-Burrard, said the members of Parliament had been selected, not to criticize and fulfill their duties, but to deal with divorce applications as one of these duties.

William Irvine, Progressive, Wetaskiwin, Alberta, declared he was going to oppose the bill not because he was opposed to divorce, but he was again, Parliament granting divorce. He did not know the merits of the cases. He was going to allow the Senate to do his thinking.

MARCEL SPEAKS

Hon. Charles Marcel, Liberal, Bonaventure, Quebec, pictured the suffering which fell on the heads of children of divorced people and questioned if Canada was doing her duty in great moral uplift in granting divorces under the present system.

BOURASSA SPEAKS

Henri Bourassa, Independent, LaBelle, Quebec, said Parliament had no power to deal with the civil rights of applicants for divorce, not to dispose of property belonging to the parties to divorce. Parliament could not decide in matters affecting divorced parties. He was inclined to agree with Mr. Woodsworth.

POSITION OF QUEBEC

During his remarks Mr. Woodsworth said some of the members from Quebec seemed to think that province was particularly virtuous because no applications were submitted to Parliament for divorce. He himself did not think for one moment that Quebec was any more virtuous than any other province. In Manitoba there was as much regard for the sanctity of marriage as there was in Quebec.

NO RUBBER STAMP

Outlining the divorce system, Mr. Woodsworth said complaints originating in Ontario, Quebec and Prince Edward Island must be dealt with by acts of the Dominion Parliament because those provinces had no divorce courts of their own.

DOUBT ABOUT MAILS

The evidence taken before the Senate committee was printed for the members of both Houses, said Mr. Woodsworth. It was really obscene literature and probably would not be allowed to go through the mails if attention were drawn to it.

If the evidence were even examined in the floor of the House it would

Lieut.-Governor to Be Among Patrons of Amphion Hall Function

Prospects are very bright for the success of the dance to be given at the Amphion Hall on April 19 by the Girl Guide and Boy Scout Associations, according to the reports of conveners heard last evening at a meeting of the committee at Guide headquarters.

Mrs. L. A. Genge has arranged with Ozard's orchestra for a most attractive programme of dance music.

Mr. Curtis Sampson, honorary president of the Guide association and S. Ravenshill, Provincial Scout Commissioner, will be the reception committee.

The dance is under the patronage of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Miss Mackenzie, Mayor and Mrs. Anselcomb, with others, will be present to represent the city.

Tickets may be obtained from members of either organization, Guides and Scouts or from Fletcher's Music Store.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

PASS THIS TEST—GET 25c

One Mother Says:

Is your face clean?

Are your hands clean?

Did you brush your teeth?

Are your finger nails clean?

Have you a clean handkerchief?

Every Monday morning each of my children get a little chart with these five questions on it, and five spaces after each. Before he leaves for school, he writes answers "Yes" or "No" opposite each question in the space for that day.

For a perfect record, twenty-five "Yes" marks, each child gets 25 cents at the end of the week. Each "No" brings a fine of 1 cent. I find that this plan does away entirely with the unpleasant necessity of asking each of them all those questions myself each morning.

In Paris... Mme. Payot world-famous beauty specialist advises this 2-minute beauty method

Renowned Parisian specialist tells of a home treatment to keep complexions fresh and youthful; palm and olive oils essential.

The Payot Salon in Paris, beauty shrine of Europeans and Canadians alike, with its chaste elegance of palm and olive oil, is an interesting example of the increasing use of modernist decoration.

"Recently I discovered a way in which the success of my work as beauty specialist could be increased. I recommend to my clients the soap of palm and olive oils which, separately, have great cosmetic value—and which, in the blending of Palmolive Soap, are doubly effective. It supplements excellently the effects of my Creme No. 1 and Lotion No. 1."

Dr. M. G. Payot
12 rue de la Paix
Paris

Madame Payot in her artfully decorated Paris salon, where every phase of beauty culture is carefully studied by this beauty dictator. Many of the loveliest women of the continent come to consult the eminent Madame Payot on problems of skin care.

FOR many years the elite of Paris have listened to the beauty advice of Mme. Payot, teacher of many beauty specialists.

Today, Mme. Payot advises the daily use of palm and olive oils in soap, in a simple 2-minute treatment, and warns against the harsh effects of the wrong kind of soap. Here is beauty news, indeed!

Mme. Payot's discovery

Madame Payot, in her appropriately modern background on the Richepausse, Paris, tells of this discovery on complexion care:

"I found," she says, "that some women habitually use soaps that harm the skin, that some of my treatments in consequence seemed to have no permanent effect."

"So, I commenced to recommend to my patients the soap made of palm and olive oils—which, separately, have great cosmetic value, and which, in the Palmolive blending, are doubly efficacious in the case of blackheads, open pores, greasy skin, etc."

The difference was immediately apparent. This home cleansing rule gives the correct foundation for the use of my Creme No. 1 and Lotion No. 1."

In the leading beauty salons of every Canadian city this very same treatment has long been recommended. Lovely Canadians travel all over the world to hear over and over again the merits of this most popular of home facial treatments. They go to Jacobson, of London; to Pessl, of Vienna; to Elise Bock, of Berlin; they visit the salon of the exquisite Lina Cavalieri, in Paris—and everywhere, everywhere they are given this same advice: wash for beauty with Palmolive Soap.

Madame Payot prefers a soap with an olive oil base because it gets down into the pores, releases accumulated dirt, dust, oil, make-up and leaves the skin fresh and radiant with delicate color.

Her 2-minute treatment

Here is the famous Palmolive treatment, recommended all over the world, as Madame Payot would advise it: make a creamy lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. With both hands massage this well into the skin two minutes, allowing it to penetrate the pores. Then rinse, first with warm water, gradually with colder. A final rinse with ice water is a refreshing astringent.

A simple treatment, yet it undoubtedly explains why Palmolive is one of the two largest selling soaps in France—known the world over as home of exquisite cosmetics. Here in Canada, and in forty-eight other countries, it is more generally used than any other soap.

A priceless formula embodying the precious oils of palm and olive, famous since the days of Cleopatra for prolonging health and beauty.

Bobby Jones on Golf

The business of being a professional golfer appears to have changed fully as radically as any other business in these fast-moving modern times. Fifteen or twenty years ago every pro was attached to a club and pursued his duties there, making clubs, selling balls, and giving lessons. Occasionally he would travel away to compete for small prizes in sectional or national championships, but tournaments were few and far between.

Growing and widespread interest in golf, however, in the past decade, has about revolutionized the professional's business. Increased interest first created demand for exhibition matches, and then exhibition matches by famous players increased interest in the game.

Everett Scott, who has been playing baseball for twenty years and who is now with the Reading Internationals, says he will play third base when he gets too slow for shortstop.

Detroit players say Dale Alexander, rookie first baseman, is one of the shyest fellows, but one of the hardest-hitting rookies to reach the majors in recent years.

CARE TO TRY OUT YOUR POWER OF HYPNOTISM?

John Mand, Los Angeles neurologist and psychologist, is shown braving the lion in his den in an attempt to hypnotize the big jungle beast. The lion is Numa, famous lion at the Gay Lion farm in El Monte, Cal., and from his looks he isn't so crazy about being hypnotized. Mand is conducting a series of experiments with animals to determine the extent of hypnotic influence.

The progress of golf in the past ten years has been amazing, and with new courses under construction everywhere there is no end yet in sight. The point has been reached when a skilled player cannot afford time for teaching and ordinary club duties. Purely from the standpoint of good business he cannot pass up the big tournaments where he may gain tempting prizes and a reputation worth thousands of dollars in exhibition engagements.

A GREAT MISTAKE

But that does not mean that we will soon be without instructors. It is a great mistake to avoid a pro. As an instructor merely because he is not a winner of championships. A man may have a keen eye for detecting faults and a sound knowledge of the technique of the game without himself being a great player. Stewart Maiden is one of these. As a teacher, Maiden is a genius. I know of no man who can detect faults more quickly nor more surely diagnose a trouble, yet Stewart has made practically no effort to play golf for years. On the other hand an expert player, dependent upon his skill to earn his livelihood, cannot endanger his game by standing all day on a practice tee, observing the curious methods of his pupils. All pros agree that teaching and playing do not by any means go together.

The finest professional product of modern times is a great asset to the game. The selection of sites for the open and amateur championships has to be made with an eye to living accommodations for the players and accessibility from the centres of the golfing population. For that reason many cities and sections have to be passed by from year to year. The only way in which people of these localities can see the experts of the game is to bring them in for exhibitions or special competitions. There can be no question that these events, in addition to arousing interest among the adult population, draw boys and girls to the game and start them on the road to being great players.

THING OF THE PAST

The clubmaking part of the professional's duties is already quite nearly a thing of the past. It is no longer necessary for a man to cut and whittle at a block of wood until he has extracted from it a driver head. The process of the finished except for the face and stain and his sole duty is to select that suits the player to the head which he likes. There is a stock of clubs in the shop and someone else does the little repair work, and that is all. The pro still assists materially by seeing to it that the player gets a club which really suits him, but the actual work of making it has been saved him by the machine of the manufacturer. It is unreasonable to suppose when to-day there are more people playing the game, and those who play more frequently, that the professional can give his personal attention to every phase of activity he formerly cared for. Years ago there could be four hours of lessons in the morning and the afternoon would be left free to work around the shop or to play a game of golf. But to-day at all clubs whose membership is not limited to a very small number, the pro teaches eight or ten hours almost every day. Playing at most once a week, he has no time to make clubs or to devote the skill necessary to convince some of his members that he knows enough to instruct them.

RECEIVERSHIP APPOINTED FOR RACE TRACK

Leo A. Grogan in Charge of Assets of Victoria Park Racing Association

On motion by D. P. W. Maunsell, counsel for the Royal Trust Company, in Supreme Court Chambers yesterday, Leo A. Grogan was appointed receiver and manager of the assets of the Victoria Park Racing Association limited at the request of the trustees for the debenture holders.

A mortgage trust deed to secure an issue of bonds was made by indenture on July 24, 1925, it was set up between the Royal Trust Company, and the Victoria Park Racing Association Limited. The bonds were issued, and are outstanding to the extent of $67,300. Default of payment as to both principal and interest is alleged by the trustees as the basis for the request for a receiver.

C. J. Peor, appearing for English bondholders, did not oppose the appointment of a receiver and manager of the assets, but was opposed to any order for the sale of the property.

No sale could be made without an order of the court, remarked Mr. Justice Murphy, appointing Mr. Grogan as requested.

CREATION OF LEAGUE TOLD BY WITNESS

David Hunter-Miller Describes Proceedings at Paris Peace Conference

Inclusion of League Covenant in Peace Treaties Notable Milestone in World Progress

The origin of the League of Nations and the negotiations leading up to inclusion in the terms of peace of the Covenant of the League, were graphically described last night by David Hunter-Miller in an address before the annual meeting of the Vancouver Island branch of the League of Nations in Canada, held at Memorial Hall, with Lindsey Crease, K.C., in the chair.

Mr. Miller was one of the legal committee which prepared the Anglo-American preliminary draft of the covenant. As one of the leading lawyers of the United States, he accompanied President Wilson to Paris to give aid in solution of legal problems. Collaborating with Sir Cecil Hurst of the British Foreign Office, he had prepared the basis whereon the League was ultimately formed, the original draft being changed little in substance.

The overshadowing question regarding the League of Nations at the time of the peace conference was whether the covenant of the league should be incorporated in the treaties of peace. Mr. Miller believed that this fact would be fully realized only by later generations.

The new status quo which resulted from the treaties of peace has become a part of the world, he said, pointing out that establishment of the league was designed to put in force a new method of carrying on the relations of the nations, which objective had been already achieved in only nine years. Credit for the decision to incorporate the covenant of the league in the peace treaties belongs to the late President Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Miller considered that those who object that action was hasty overlook the fact that such a body could only come into being after dreadful experiences had driven public opinion to agreement. Delay would have meant abandonment of the project of a league until the next general war had run its course.

The proceedings of the discussions were reviewed, the difficulties of bilingual debates not being as serious as might be expected. Two of the finest speeches in English of the sessions were given by Dr. Wellington Koo of China and Baron Nakano of Japan. Mr. Miller believes the greatest orator in attendance was President Wilson. He declared untrue reports that the late president prepared his speeches. On the contrary he liked to speak extemporaneously.

A British committee, headed by Lord Phillimore, developed a plan of national co-operation which was in great part incorporated in the later proposals of President Wilson.

B. C. Nicholas expressed to Mr. Miller the thanks of the meeting. Much of the information provided had not been available to the audience. He believed that the address would spur the Victoria members of the league to renewed activity in advancing the enrolment of members.

mind clause were feared to concern maintenance of a "white Australia" and immigration to North America. Despite a clear majority, the paragraph was rejected when the British and United States delegates refused to agree.

President Wilson had been unable to obtain inclusion of a clause declaring for religious liberty, this being regarded as a matter of internal concern of each nation.

The French suggestion for creation of an armed league force, also rejected, showed wise caution when viewed across the intervening years. "Without Wilson there would have been no League of Nations. Others had a part, but Wilson was the founder," he said. A major part in formation of the league was attained by Lord Robert Cecil, credited by Mr. Miller with the second place in its creation. He recalled that when the peace discussions were in progress the status of the components of the British Empire was not as clearly stated as it is to-day. He cited the presence of Sir Robert Borden as the representative of Canada when noting that the Dominions and the Indian Empire were welcomed.

Mr. Miller touched upon his collaboration with Sir Cecil Hurst, legal adviser to the British Foreign Office in preparation of the draft of the covenant terms, which were the basis of discussions. He remarked that the existing agreement was in general, the document the two legal experts had prepared on behalf of Britain and the United States.

SHOCK OLD POLITICIANS

To most pre-war ministers, the League of Nations, with its publicity, would have been as horrifying as the suggestion of court presentation of a princess with bobbed hair and short skirts," he remarked.

Mr. Miller believed that human nature changes, though slowly, and for some centuries people have shown the same reactions loving a system of law and order, and objecting to changes. "It took the war to bring about the change to a common-sense system in dealings between nations, the system of the League of Nations," he said. "Anyone who goes back and searches out the diplomacy of pre-war 1914 will see the thousands of telegrams, the confusion, the officers not knowing what was in force, with telegrams crossing in confusion. All the officials concerned were worn out, their nerves shattered, and the unpalatable judgment of the world condemned those pre-war conditions. If our business was run that way we would end up in the madhouse or in bankruptcy, probably both. Yet that is the way the nation carried on business together," declared Mr. Miller.

A British committee, headed by Lord Phillimore, developed a plan of national co-operation which was in great part incorporated in the later proposals of President Wilson.

BILLY BARTON'S FUTURE UNKNOWN

Famous Steeplechaser Is Still in England While Owner Returns to United States

Whether Billy Barton again tries for the highest honour in the Grand National remains for the future to decide. The aged jumper came out of the 1929 classic at Antwerp somewhat bruised and battered after his fall and still carries the scars of the wounds he sustained in the gruelling steeplechase, according to his owner, Howard Bruce of Baltimore, who returned to New York recently on the steamship Olympic.

Bruce was reluctant to discuss the future of his famous horse, which literally jumped into the limelight last year when he finished second in the Grand National. Billy Barton escaped the prize last year and failed when he stumbled and fell.

Billy Barton still is in England, and his future is a puzzle. He has never been made to ship the jumper to America, though he intimated that Billy Barton probably would be brought over here later.

Bruce declared that he was well pleased with the showing that Billy Barton made, considering the hard luck in which he raced. At the time Billy Barton fell he was going along smoothly, Bruce said. Jockey Cullinan, who had the leg up, reported that the horse over which Billy Barton fell just after clearing the Canal jump, was obscured in such a manner that there wasn't a chance of pulling clear.

BRUISED AND LACERATED

Billy Barton was bruised and lacerated, but not seriously, and barring the fact that some of the scars still show, the jumper is none the worse for his experience.

Bruce, who was accompanied by Mrs. Bruce, will take part in some of the cross-country racing to be staged in Maryland this Spring.

COMMISSION TO REPORT IN TWO MONTHS

Radio Findings Will Not Be Ready For Present Session of Parliament, Says Aird

Commissioners Greatly Impressed By Systems in Britain and Germany

Two months will elapse before the recommendations of the Radio Commission on broadcasting will be made to the Government of Canada, it was stated today by Sir John Aird, chairman of the Royal Commission, in an interview with the Times at the Empress Hotel.

Other members of the commission are: Charles A. Bowman, editor of the Ottawa Citizen, and Augustin Frigon, director of the Ecole Polytechnique, Montreal. Donald Manson is the secretary of the commission.

It would be impossible for the commission to complete its investigations and bring down its report before the prorogation of the Federal Parliament, Sir John emphasized.

"We have yet to hold sessions throughout Canada and the commission will also visit Washington, D.C., before any definite conclusions can be reached," said Sir John, before hurrying off to the Parliament Buildings to hear the views of Federal and Provincial government officials.

He said the members of the radio commission were received with every courtesy by the government of the various countries visited during the recent European tour and every assistance was given them in their investigations.

QUESTION OF ADAPTATION

Adaptation of the systems in effect in Europe to the needs of Canada, in view of the great distances here, was a question that could not yet be determined, said Sir John.

It was an open question whether the best that Europe had to offer could be adapted to the needs of this country.

RADIO IN CANADA

The extent of radio in Canada is indicated by the fact that 400,000 receiving sets are in operation. Of these sixty per cent are urban and forty per cent rural. Sixty-eight broadcasting plants in operation in this country are licensed by the Minister of Marine. Thirty-two stations provide an intermittent service of low power of purely local operation.

Governor of Kwantlen Head Here

T. Harry Gowman, Pacific Northwest District Head, Addresses Club

Outlines Effect of Work of Service Clubs in Canada and United States

On his first official visit to a Canadian Kiwanis Club, T. Harry Gowman, district governor of the Pacific Northwest Kiwanis district, attended the luncheon of the Victoria club at the Empress Hotel to-day.

Mr. Gowman, in an address to the members, spoke of the great progress of service clubs during the last decade. In Canada and the United States, 400,000 business men regularly attended the luncheon of twenty-five different service clubs, a survey showed.

He referred to the large amount of community work done by these clubs and of the sums of money spent upon social improvement.

"The service clubs are based upon ideals. Without them we would fail to exist," said Mr. Gowman, referring to certain definite results.

The average business man, he said, had a natural desire to serve and the service club gave the opportunity for the expression of this ideal.

REASON THEY HOLD

It was because the service clubs held to this altruistic ideal of service that they retained the interest of business men. This ideal was transformed into a constructive programme which definitely resulted in better business.

Aid to children, better business standards, public health betterment and other aims of the clubs were mentioned by the speaker.

To the community, the contributions of the club were definite and important. Except for the individual member, the club was the greatest force in the community for boys, aid to hospitals and attraction of industries were some of the lines along which service club aims developed.

THE GOLDEN RULE

By applying the Golden Rule to all business dealings, both export and business progress was obtained, he added.

"Community, sectional and even international relations can be bettered steadily bettered through the influence of service clubs," Mr. Gowman said.

In an atmosphere of fellowship and good feeling the individual member released from business at luncheon. He enjoyed good music and obtained an education through hearing well-informed speakers.

The opportunity given for expression of the altruistic ideal of service.

Mr. Gowman outlined its objectives. The aggressive promotion of Kiwanis educational work, of Kiwanis objectives of membership increase in established clubs and of extension of service to the organization were the four big international objects of Kiwanis this year, he said.

Brooke Stenstrom, president of the Victoria Kiwanis Club, was in command named the club's delegate to the International Kiwanis convention to be held in Milwaukee, June 3. D. Macdonald, the vice-president, was named alternate delegate.

Miss Edna L. Moore, field worker of the Canadian Tuberculosis Society, was a guest at the Kiwanis Club luncheon to-day and in a short address, she outlined the campaign for the tuberculosis, the campaign carried on last Christmas.

The manufacture of Holsum products, a local industry, was described to the Victoria Kiwanis at luncheon to-day by Ellis Brown. Some of the products of the car, in his opinion, was to a great extent the cause of the accident. Discussing the question as to whether the accused kept a proper lookout, Mr. Baird said Boggs did not see the man he struck.

Vancouver, April 16—With the figure of an unknown woman shadowing the evidence, the prosecution this forenoon closed its case against Theodore Boggs, twenty-year-old student of the University of British Columbia, where his father is a professor.

The youth is charged triply with manslaughter, causing grievous bodily injury and causing bodily harm, as a result of knocking down with his automobile and killing Edward Oliver Kaye at Pacific and Granville Streets here last on the morning of January 13 last.

He sped on after hitting Kaye and dragging the body more than 150 feet, but gave him up for losing the police on the evening of January 14.

HOTEL MAN'S EVIDENCE

Whispers that a girl and not Boggs was in control of the car were repeated in some circles at the time of the young man's voluntary surrender, and these crystallized into evidence when J. D. Pearson, a hotel proprietor, one of the twenty-one witnesses called yesterday by W. J. Baird, prosecutor, was on the stand in the late afternoon.

Pearson swore that at 12:16 a.m. about fifteen minutes before the accident, he saw a car, which he believed to be that of Boggs, proceeding north on Granville Street at about forty miles an hour.

Asked as to whether he could identify the driver, he stated: "It looked like a woman to me."

DETECTIVE TESTIFIES

Detective Robert Knox explained that after the accused had surrendered to the police on January 14, the automobile was found at the Boggs residence and taken by officers to the police station. The witness had informed Boggs he was charged with manslaughter and warranted him, but was not obliged to say anything.

"He said he was driving the car on Saturday night," testified Detective Knox, "and that his father knew nothing of the accident. Asked whether he had been in an accident, he replied he had been advised to say nothing."

This evidence of the officer was adduced with the consent of J. W. deB. Parris, K.C., defence counsel, after he had refused to admit, in response to the request of Prosecutor Baird, that Boggs was driving the car.

MECHANIC TESTIFIES

The automobile was identified by Alex. Hardman, garage mechanic, as one belonging to Professor Boggs.

IS CONGRATULATED

Paul Paquin and Companion Completing Arrangements For Adventurous Trip

Consults Geographer Regarding Route Through B.C.; Kiwanians Greet Him

To paddle his own canoe across Canada from Vancouver to Halifax is the ambition of Paul Paquin, of Montreal, a French-Canadian who is in the city to-day completing arrangements for his adventurous trip.

With Dick Lasage, Paquin plans to leave in his transcanadian canoe from the Granville Street bridge at Vancouver, on April 29, and the route of the Canadian Pacific Railway will be followed as far as possible.

This forenoon, Mr. Paquin conferred with Major G. C. Aiken, chief provincial geographer, relative to the route to be taken across the Province.

At noon he was the guest of the Victoria Kiwanis Club when he was presented with a Canadian ensign by Kenneth Ferguson on behalf of the club. Mr. Ferguson expressed the hope that Paul would carry with him on his travels the greetings of the Victoria to fellow Kiwanians.

DIRECT ROUTE

It was at first proposed that the two French Canadians follow the route taken by Sir Alexander Mackenzie but under arrangements completed with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and the Hudson's Bay Company, the P.R. transcontinental route will be followed.

It took Mackenzie two seasons to make the trip across Canada to the mouth of the Mackenzie River. But Paquin and Lasage expect to negotiate the more direct route within eight months.

ROUTE TO BE TAKEN

After paddling out of Vancouver harbor, it is Paquin's intention to proceed to New Westminster and then follow the Fraser River as far as Hope. They will then portage over that part of the Fraser Canyon barred by Hell's Gate and from Lytton will follow the South Thompson River to Kamloops.

The canoeists will then take to Kamloops Lake and will follow Shuswap Lake and the Eagle River to the Columbia River through Revelstoke. They will follow the Illecillewaet River will portage over the Selkirk Pass and then cross the Beaver River to Beavermouth, where the Columbia River will again be negotiated. The Blazer River will be next, after which they will cross the ridge of the Rockies through Howe Pass, above the Kicking Horse Canyon.

Once over the Rockies they will follow the great Saskatchewan River through Edmonton to Prince Albert, on to the Prairies and Norway House to Fort Alexander at the south end of Lake Winnipegosis.

They will then proceed along the Winnipeg River into the Lake of the Woods at Kenora and continue Lake and Pigeon River to Fort William. After that the Great Lakes route will be followed to the Soo and on to the St. Lawrence River.

On reaching Lake Etchemin the intrepid canoeists will make a long portage to the Daquian River, which will take them to Saint John, N.B., and the West Arm river will enable them to reach Halifax, N.S.

Preliminary to the commencement of the adventure, Mr. Paquin, who left this afternoon for Vancouver, plans to return here within a day or two to rest up for the hazardous trip.

PLANNED AHEAD

Paquin has had this long and adventurous trip in mind for nearly ten years. He told a Times representative to-day. He is an expert canoeist himself and also a clever swimmer, so that he is well fitted to combat the many difficulties which he may encounter en route.

It was four years ago that he made up his mind to undertake the trip, he said. He is making the trip to lay his plans. He will use a twenty-four-foot canoe from Vancouver, but will take a smaller craft, eighteen feet in length, when in the interior of the Province, as he will need to make long portage through Howe Pass.

Paquin is financing the trip himself. He expects to arrive in Halifax some time in November or December. Although it might be possible to make the trip in less time, he expects to meet receptions in various cities through which he will pass, and this will therefore delay his progress somewhat. He is making the trip mostly for his own enjoyment, he declared.

WHITNEY LETTER

By Branson, Brown &amp; Co. Ltd.

New York, April 16.—Whitney of the Wall Street Financial Service says today:

ANOTHER RALLY DUE

"The market, as a whole, has not acted as well as was expected in that the rally did not have sufficient strength to carry the averages to the best level witnessed since the March 20th. For a large number of issues this is not true, but the fact remains that, in so far as that intangible thing 'the market' is concerned, instead of having a higher market over the week end we have had another day and a half reaction. Consequently, we have to look forward to some additional selling to-day, and thereafter the inauguration of another rally movement which will close to-day's market higher than that of yesterday, leaving the next immediate move to be decided almost entirely from the developments, these developments being the character of the President's message to the special session of Congress and the degree of favorability of the unfavorable in comparison with expectations as to the plans which will be presented by directors of the steel corporation after the close of to-day.

"Too much stress should not be put on the developments of any particular day when volume is running as it is at the present time, and when the major portion of this volume is represented largely by the activity of floor traders who have no clear cut market opinion other than that they do not like the motor group, or the copper group, but are bullish on steel and oil. How much artificiality is present in the market is again clearly demonstrated by the raiding which was in effect in the closing half hour, which resulted in the tape continuing to record transient advances in minutes after the market has closed, despite the fact that volume not only was materially smaller than the 3,500,000 shares which was the average for last week, but fell not only below the 3,000,000 share market, but very close to 2,500,000.

"Money rates have largely ceased to be a factor in the stock market, so the next incentive for any general movement must come from a new development, and action by the steel directors, at a point much more favorable than the street expects or is willing to believe, can well be the incentive which the market needs.

COMMENT

"On a canvass of the selling movement which was in effect at the close, the issues mentioned here yesterday should be purchased. Those issues are as follows: Standard Oil of U.S., Standard Oil of California and Apan American, U.S. Steel, American Can, Allied Chemical, American Telephone and Telegraph, Texas Gulf Sulphur, American Dry Goods, Interboro, Rapid Transit, Marine, pfd., Montgomery Ward, Cons. Gas, Yellow Truck & Industrial Alcohol, and General Electric.

THE TINY TALES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNUCK

As all the hail fell out of sight, the Tinkles clapped with all their might, and shouted, "Thank you, Thunder Man! That big hailstorm was grand. But, what's the use of making hail? It drops to earth to no avail. If you don't simply let it rain, we do not understand."

"Well," said the Thunder Man, "let's see. The answer's simple as can be. You must admit folks like a change, so hail is not in vain. Instead of raindrops all the time, I send them hail and chilly clime. And, after all, that just keeps folks from getting tired of rain."

This explanation seemed real flat, but they all let it go at that. Then Scouty said, "I'd like to see some lightning flash on high. Please make it zigzag here and there, but not enough to bring a scare. It's really very pretty when it lights up all the sky."

"No sooner said than done, my lad,"

In fact I will be very glad to grant your simple little wish," the Thunder Man replied. "But, at the same time I must make it pour and thunder till you shake. I'll promise naught will hurt you, so you mustn't run and hide."

He waved his big hands to and fro, and said, "The next thing that you know we'll have a wondrous rainstorm like you've never seen before. The thunder crashed and lightning broke. It really wasn't any joke. "Oh, stop the rain," wee Clowzy cried. "We'll never ask for more."

The rain then stopped. The bunch was glad. The storm had really been quite bad. Just at this moment two small stars cried loudly, "That's not right. You shouldn't make it rain like that. It makes our raining very flat. Please keep your clouds away so we can stand out good and bright."

To-morrow's Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, 1929

Benefic and adverse aspects contend today, according to astrology, which finds the planetary government rather uncertain. The morning may be most unfavorable for women who easily lose their heads while this rule prevails.

Small worries may loom large while this configuration continues, and for this reason it is important not to indulge in useless reflections.

The temper should be safeguarded to-day, for men as well as women may be easily provoked. Husbands may be especially trying.

Under this way intellectual work of every sort should benefit. Creative writers should be decidedly stimulated, the seers declare.

Literature is to receive a decided impetus toward higher standards of work. It is foretold, and the year will stand out for at least one noteworthy achievement.

Partners to-day may be more or less concerned because of bad weather and consequent threatened losses.

The direction of the stars is not favorable to workers who are likely to voice discontent and even to start strikes. Household employees may be especially difficult to deal with at this time.

Neptune is, in an aspect supposed to produce extraordinary conditions affecting the production and sale of oil and other fuels.

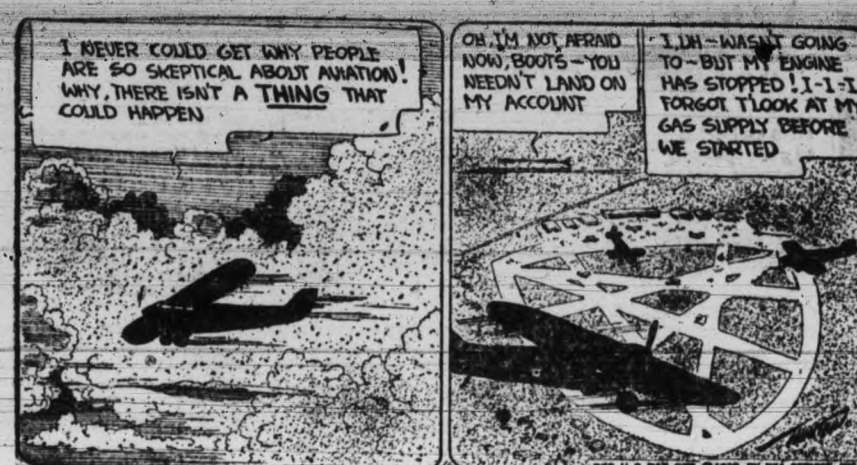

Children born on this day probably will have much personal magnetism and charm. The subjects of this sign often are imitative and many actors are indebted to its good influences. Financiers as well as artists belong to the Aries-Taurus group.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of much change and excitement. Business should be carefully watched. There is good luck foreseen from journeys and change.

Uncle Wiggily and the Sad Leaf

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Spring had come. There was no mistake about it. Where Uncle Wiggily lived, in Woodland near the Orange Joe Mountains, the winter weather had gone back to the North Pole where it would rattle the fur of the White Bears and make ice in the water where the Seals swam. But around Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow it was Spring!

The old rabbit gentleman could tell this by looking at the trees and bushes. Instead of bare brown sticks and branches he could now see a tiny film of green spreading out.

"That means the leaves are coming soon," said Mr. Longears. "And here the leaves come out on the trees that is a sure sign of Spring. Hurray!"

He felt so happy that he danced up and down on the grass, which often remains green all winter if it can find a sheltered corner away from the north wind and too much snow.

"Often," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, as he danced up and down, "often I have wished that I lived in the warm southland. That's when there is too much snow and ice around my bungalow. But though it is lovely in the southland, they never can feel glad when Spring comes, because it is always like Spring there. Yes, I have much to be thankful for!"
